PUNCHARD SENIOR PLAY

High School Students Give Excellent Presentation of "Take My Advice"—Lack of Electric Light Delays Hour of Beginning

The office of a country newspaper, the Eureka News, was the scene for each of three acts of "Take My Advice" presented by members of the senior and junior classes of the Punchard school in the Town hall last Friday evening. The walls covered with signs, and posters, and the meagre furniture of the printing desk, typewriter and necessary chairs formed a background for the play and conflict of human passions—revenge, selfish ambition, personal vanity, desire for professional integrity, dawning civic pride and young love.

Eureka, is about to become "the deserted village" as a result of the malice of John Warrington who has bent all his energies to fostering the prosperity of the neighboring town of Clinton where he is a large property owner, and to destroying Eureka which is owned by his deceased brother, who was the power of the press, he uses both the news and editorial columns of the Eureka News for his own purposes, since its young editor is under financial obligations to him, making him his slave in body and soul.

The dawn of a new day comes with the arrival of Jimmy Samson with Bigley's slogan that he is a "Builder of Business." Nothing casts a shadow on his breezy optimism, not even the apathy of Jud Fenton, who loafs and sleeps in the newspaper office, the harassed and helpless young editor, the pert rebuffs of the editor's sister, nor the scowls of the omnipotent John Warrington. A good fairy, in the person of a stranger to that vicinity, Peggy Acton, unaccountably takes a great interest in the little town and advances the sum of $20,000 for a boating campaign. Her interest extends also to the young editor and from her purse, by way of Jud Fenton, the editor's sister, sufficient to pay his debts and make him a free man again, able to express his own opinions either by word of mouth or in print, and lend his assistance in the rehabilitation of Eureka.

The chagrin of the discomfited John Warrington is complete when he discovers that the ally of Jimmy, the town-maker, and Bob the editor, is none other than Peggy Warrington, his own niece. The chagrin extends also to his daughter, the haughty Marcia, who had designs of her own on the young editor.

One is left to infer that Jimmy, the town-maker, succeeds in his business enterprise, if not in his advances to Virgy, and that Bob Manion with Peggy as his wife makes the Eureka News a power in a live community. The action of the play was brisk from start to finish even though Jud assured Jimmy that his engine had but one speed and that was low. Ababel Loodsgian, with his pipe and his whiskers both looked and acted the part of the good-natured town loafer. The enthusiastic exponent of Bigley was found in Elyn Russell who breezed his cheerful way through the whole play without letting down for a second unless it was the moment when he almost missed a line.

Boy Scouts to Hold Supper and Exhibition

On Tuesday, February 7, there will be a supper and exhibition in the town hall, at which time all scouts, parents and friends from all the troops in Andover are invited to observe the 18th anniversary of the founding of the Boy Scouts of America, which is one of the three national organizations holding a charter from the Congress of the United States.

Articles of scoutcraft made by the scouts will be on display. There will also be a demonstration of making fire by friction, without matches, and the signs and labels to be used in Carmel woods will also be shown. Merit badges will be awarded to the more advanced scouts; and it is expected that Clarence DeMar, the famous marathon runner, will be present and make these awards.

LEAGUE OF WOMEN VOTERS

Miss Marie Carroll, of Staff of World Peace Foundation, Speaks on International Relations

"The first step in promoting friendly relations between the nations of the earth is economic disarmament," declared Miss Marie Carroll, addressing a meeting of the Andover League of Women Voters on Tuesday afternoon at the Phelps House. Miss Carroll, who is a member of the general staff of the World Peace foundation chose as her subject "Some Aspects of Our International Relations" and spoke in part as follows:

During the last six or seven generations since the great inventions of the 18th century the economic life of mankind has become organized on an international plane. First Great Britain and then one western country after another began manufacturing for export. Simultaneously, countries less well equipped for industrial organization, but possessing raw materials, minerals, etc. developed extensive trade relations with manufacturing centers. Thus, there grew up, out of innumerable individual relationships, a world-wide system of economic interdependence. The deep significance of this economic interdependence which had grown up during the 19th century became fully apparent only during the years of the war. If the system is international, the remedies for its shortcomings must naturally be looked for in the same sphere.

It is no longer possible, as it was the 19th century, to expand areas of territorial and commercial control. So-called backward areas have now been absorbed or are under the tutelage of states with wide commercial interests. In Europe since the war, political units have become smaller and more numerous in contrast to commercial units becoming larger and expanding across international boundaries. The world-demand for raw materials, which knows no national boundaries, and which is forcing international cooperation comes into conflict with nationalistic forces directed toward partitioning resources for national gain. The economic policy of a nation has effects not only within its frontiers but upon its external relations in other words upon peace. Therefore, in the interests of international good-will it ought to be possible for nations to agree on basic principles of procedure which in effect compromise legitimate aspirations with world pressures.

The disorganization of the economic life of the world following the war was very apparent and it was recognized by all countries that conflicts in trade and industry were perhaps the most serious and most permanent of all the dangers which may threaten the peace of the world, and that no task was more urgent than to secure international agreement with regard to the principles on which nations traded day by day one with another.

Because of the urgency of these facts, a preparatory committee for a World Economic Conference was appointed by the Council of the League of Nations to prepare an agenda and expert studies on the problems to be considered. This committee was composed of very influential commercial and industrial representatives—bankers, economists and agriculturists—assisted by the International Chamber of Commerce, the International Labor Organization and the International Institute of Agriculture. Their inquiries showed that in the world as a whole there had been an increase of 5 percent in population from 1913-1925, an 18 percent increase in the production of food stuffs and raw materials, but that the volume of commerce in 1925 was only 5 percent higher than 1913.

It, therefore, seemed clear that barriers to trade needed to be investigated. The conditions succeeding the war did not permit of the immediate resumption of normal trading relations. The passing away of temporary financial and economic difficulties has enabled a study of the economic problems facing the world to-day. Changes have

Reviewing with reasonable satisfaction a year of accomplishment in many fields, and looking forward with courage and enthusiasm to the tasks of the year to come, more than two hundred members of the South church spent an evening of fellowship following the annual church supper served Wednesday evening in the church vestry. The fine, mild weather was favorable for a gathering including both old and young, and a spirit of harmony prevailed throughout the evening.

As the guests assembled at the supper tables "Onward Christian Soldiers" was played on the organ by Charles Currier and after the singing of the Doxology, grace was asked by Rev. E. Victor Bigelow, D.D. Following a substantial and well-served repast, the post prandial exercises opened with a song by J. Everett Collins, which was so warmly endorsed that he generously repeated it.

The minister's report by Mr. Bigelow recorded a year of activity and usefulness by the church and its numerous auxiliary societies. In his own words, "numbers of people or of dollars or of meetings are not necessarily the proof of the Spirit's presence, and are set forth only as approximate indicators of the direction and strength of our life."

He spoke with discrimination in appreciation of the work of the sexton, Jonathan Holt, the director of music, J. Everett Collins, of the ushers, the superintendent of the Church school, Thaxter Eaton, and of the men who successfully manage the finances of the church.

The church has suffered the loss of eight members by death, many of them held in special remembrance by reason of long years of association and service. The necrology was read as follows with everyone standing: Roscoe K. Cole—for forty years a member quiet industrious faithful. He leaves with us sons and daughters of the same sort, to continue his memory and his service.

Mrs. Rebecca Cole—many remember her fondly as "Grammy Cole," who took the psalmist's ardent delight in the house of the Lord and came to it like Suzanne of old until she was nearly ninety years of age.

Mrs. James E. Gilman—not well-known by many of our people, because she lived in distant parts of our town, a patient sufferer throughout the last year, full of faith and hope.

Lois M. Cummings—for forty years a most resolute and devout member unworried by any worldly appeal. Would that we had more people with whom the church could mean so much as it did to her.

James D. Fairweather—for thirty-three years since he arrived from Scotland, faithful and loyal to the South Church. Through many months of severe suffering his faith shone pure and strong.

Sarah E. C. Oliver—but a short time with us and known to few. Her famous grandfather was the composer of the familiar tune "Federal Street." She found the South Church more satisfying than any she ever knew.

Mrs. Alice Abbot—a pillar in the temple of God, polished after the similitude of a palace; teacher of young men who rise up to call her blessed; leader of the Women's Union of this church for twenty-five years in ardent and comprehensive devotion.

Mrs. George (Mary E.) Ripley—from her young girlhood seventy years ago when she united with this church, her loyalty has been unwavering, and now as she moves to the choir above, she leaves a legacy to this church which yields two hundred and fifty dollars each year for the maintenance of our musical service.

These eight members we commended to the Father's House above, and bid them all farewell till we meet again in His presence.

The report of the clerk, John A. Arnold, which was printed and distributed to all present was as follows:

Total Membership of the Church, January 1, 1928—660. Added during 1927—34. Subtracted during 1927—24. Net gain—10.

Received during the year: George Ripley, Helen Ripley, George Chadwick Richards,

REPERTORY THEATRE

Some years ago when Mr. Jewett's company acted Isen's "Hedda Gabler" it met with pronounced success. More recently the same dramatist's play, "The Wild Duck," was so cordially received that it played for three weeks at crowded houses at the Repertory Theatre. Realizing the interest in Isen's plays, the management has decided to revive "Hedda Gabler" for a single week, beginning next Monday evening.

The beginnings of the story of "Hedda Gabler" prepare the audience for something vitally dramatic. As a young girl she has amused herself by winning the affection of practically every man she meets, but the poet who most fancied himself in love with her had none of this world's goods to bestow upon her. She calmly jilted him to marry the dull, kindly and unimaginative George Tesman, who had prospects of wealth, and who could give her the position in society that she craved. Thus begins the play of "Hedda Gabler," which is intense, thrilling and powerfully dramatic, weaving together with the skilled hand of a master dramatist the elements in life and love that make a drama both realistic and romantic. The entire play seems to be a series of episodes about real people out of real life.

Hedda Gabler is a character that tests the capabilities of any actress, and as the central figure of the play bearing her name for its title, she has been one of the most-talked-about personages in the modern drama. Hedda will be acted at The Repertory by Katharine Warren, with Arthur Sircom as George Tesman, William Faversham as Eilert Lovborg, Lennis Cleugh as Brack, Olga Birbeck as Mrs. Elvsted, Cecelia Radcliffe as the Aunt, and Adelaide George as Bertha.

MODERN AND BEACON

Anna Q. Nilsson, often called the most beautiful blonde on the screen, was the first Swedish player to gain fame and fortune, and while others come and go, she remains one of our foremost actresses. Miss Nilsson is co-featured with Francis X. Bushman in the photoplay, "The Thirteenth Juror," now showing at the Modern and Beacon theatres. The pliant blonde star, who was born in Ystad, Sweden, but came to this country soon after finishing her college education. After several seasons on the legitimate stage she turned to pictures where she has remained ever since, starring in many notable successes. In "The Thirteenth Juror" she is said to give the outstanding characterization of her career.

The production is a screen version of Henry Irving's celebrated stage success "Counsel for the Defense," and was directed by Edward Laemmle.

"Flying Luck" is the companion picture at the Twin Theatres, and in which Monty Banks, screen comedy star, attempts to learn flying in "Ten Easy Lessons," by mail, and has many hair-raising, breath-taking experiences.

Andover Woman is Struck by Machine

Struck by an automobile while crossing Lawrence street just north of Essex street, Lawrence early Monday evening, Rose McCartney, 18, of 15 Highland road, sustained a dislocated right thumb.

According to the report filed at police headquarters Sarah M. Corbett of 49 Coolidge street, Lawrence, operator of the car that struck Miss McCartney, had just turned from Essex street into Lawrence street when the accident occurred. Miss McCartney's thumb was reset by a physician.

Jones of the Department of Education will preside at the afternoon session when a local Superintendent of Schools and a School Nurse will consider the Ten-Year Program from their specific points of view. A demonstration of the use of the audiometer in the testing of hearing of school children will be given.

A most cordial invitation is extended to school authorities, boards of health, school physicians, nurses, nutritionists, dentists, dental hygienists, and all others interested to be present and join in the discussion.

taken place, by no means entirely to be attributed to the effects of the war. The war hastened changes which had begun in the early years of the 20th century, chief of which was the stimulation of manufacturing industries throughout the world and diverting foreign trade between Europe and the rest of the world. The international trade of Europe is only 89 percent of the prewar figures.

After almost a year had been spent in the preparation of the necessary documentation, the Preparatory Committee collected and published about sixty volumes comprising an enormous amount of material, compiled with the aid of official and private organizations throughout the world and covering an extremely wide range of subjects.

The International Economic Conference was then summoned and met at Geneva from May 4-23, 1927. It was attended by members from fifty countries, including Turkey, Egypt and the United States. The main object of the Conference was to bring about a general exchange of views on existing economic difficulties and the means of overcoming them, and to find out methods for improvement and greater freedom of international commerce.

It is noteworthy that the 194 members and the 157 experts were not official spokesmen of government policies, but were selected by their Governments on the basis of technical and personal qualifications. The list present included industrialists, merchant bankers, economists, agriculturists, officials with experience of commercial policy, representatives of workers' and consumers' organizations, cooperative societies, and three women specialists representing international women's organizations.

The work of the conference fell under three main headings: Commerce, Industry and Agriculture. The first commission (Commerce) dealt with liberty of trading, customs tariffs and commercial treaties, and indirect methods of protecting national commerce and shipping. The conclusions of this conference are of great importance.

That variable high tariffs are harmful to production and to commerce; That present economic conditions can be improved, while facilitating international trade; That tariffs for bargaining purposes must be unconditionally condemned;

That inquiries or inspections involving inquisitorial procedure shall be eliminated. The simplification of customs tariffs was shown to be eminently desirable and therefore a system of tariff nomenclature was necessary. The excessive number of tariff elements in life and love that make a drama both realistic and romantic. The entire play seems to be a series of episodes about real people out of real life.

A conference which would draw up a convention on import and export prohibitions was agreed upon, and held sessions from October 17th to November 8th for this purpose. Resolutions on anti-dumping, discrimination of various kinds, subsidies, trade statistics, commercial policies and treaties were passed unanimously. One important and extremely encouraging result was the desire of the members of the Conference to make sure that the deliberations marked the beginning of a new era during which international commerce will overcome obstacles in its path that hamper it and resume an upward movement which will be a sign of the economic health of the world and also the necessary condition for the development of civilization.

The commission occupied with the problems of industry examined the questions of industrial agreements, rationalization, and the general situation of the industries with which the industries of primary importance in the international field are faced in certain parts of the world are insufficiency of capital, lack of markets for productive capacity, and the general impoverishment following the war, particularly in Europe.

The existence of several of the countries with tariff walls and industrial problems augmented the difficulty. Finally, the changes in the structure of economic life and the insecurity of financial conditions have prevented restoration in the industrial field. The arrangements were made by a committee comprising Arthur Jackson, Roy Lindsay, Miss Sarah Corbett, Miss Bertha Coutts, Miss Annie McKenzie and Miss Mary Gorrill.

Actively the preparations are being carried on by those in charge of the excellent concert soon to be given for the benefit of the Andover Home for Aged People. Besides a full chorus of eighty voices under the leadership of Father Baker of Lowell, the Andover Band orchestra and the Raymond Male quartet are to take part in the program. The program will be as follows: Grand march, orchestra; "Strike the Cymbal," solo by Mrs. Fred G. Moore; "Boating Song," Raymond Male quartet; "The Old Oaken Bucket," solo by Roland Sewell; anthem, "David's Lamentations"; "When the Heart Was Young," Mrs. Moore; "Sound the Bells," solo by Mrs. J. H. Hovey; "Jolly Jonathan," Messrs. Bell, Gilbert, Scott and Knight; anthem, "Sherrburn"; "Today I'm Ninety-two," Miss Mabel Carter; anthem, "Jerusalem My Glorious Home"; duet, "A. B. C.," Mrs. Moore and Mr. Baker; solo and chorus, "Hunting Song," Raymond Male quartet; "The Star Spangled Banner," Mrs. Moore; "America," chorus and audience. The pianists will be Fred G. Looking Back Twenty-five Years

Jules Duval of the Tyer Rubber company has been ill this week.

Alvin Tough, who was reported to have slow typhoid fever, is now a great deal better. Insurance Agent George A. Parker has opened an office in Albert W. Lowe's drug-store.

Charles T. Ryder of this place, a student at Harvard, had a poem in a recent number of "Life".

The first message to come into Lawrence over the new Pacific cable was from Honolulu, for Walter Love, a Phillips academy student, N. H. Pride of this place is now choir-master at St. Mark's school.

Er. J. P. Torrey has moved from Essex street to his new residence on Elm street.

Miss Lena Lindsay is at home from the Bridgewater Normal school as the result of an attack of tonsillitis.

The crack in the South church bell has widened so that the bell cannot be rung. An attempt will be made to fix it by sawing out a piece of metal.

A telephone has been installed in the town office's quarters at the Town house.

The late Rev. Leverett Bradley was the organizer of the Girls' Friendly society in town.

Dr. James Fuller will speak to the Young Men's club of the Free church next Monday evening upon "A Trip to Pompeii".

Twenty-eight Phillips academy students who have been rooming in Commons have been transferred to Bartlett hall in the seminary buildings.

Edward Shattuck was awarded the contract for supplying the Lawrence jail with milk during the ensuing year.

Miss Charlotte Holt who has been spending the holidays at the residence of his father, James J. Abbott, Mineral street, returned to school on Monday.

The clerks at Valpey Brothers market captured a real live and very green grasshopper or locust of ample proportions the first of the week.

About fifty Odd Fellows, their wives and daughters were present last Monday night at Odd Fellows hall to talk over the formation of a Rebekah lodge in town. Already forty or fifty members of other Rebekah lodges have asked for their withdrawal papers so that they may join in Andover, and in all eighty or ninety have signified their intention of joining. It is probable that the lodge will be started in February. Ice cream and cake were served Monday night.

A joint installation of the recently elected officers of Gen. William F. Bartlett Post 99, G. A. R., and Walter L. Raymond Camp, 111 S. V., was held in G. A. R. hall last Friday evening with Dr. Charles H. Gilbert as installing officer and J. Warren Berry as officer of the day. The following officers were installed: Commander J. B. A. Moore and Miss Annie Smart.

Among the succulent roughages pasture and silage are of most importance. Dairy cows always do better in early summer when the grass is plentiful and green. Because of the nutrients and succulence that it provides, silage is the most economical winter substitute for pasture grass. Good cows will produce more and therefore cheaper milk if given silage or some other succulent feed during the winter.

The following real estate transfers were recorded in the registry of deeds of the Lawrence court house the past week: Ballardville Mills Company to Northern Rubber Co.
George E. Bricault, et ux to Carl A. Langer, et ux.
Agnes Davidson to Rose A. Chapman.

Americanizing the Working Man

The following editorial reprinted from The Boston Herald deals with a very interesting condition and is worth giving more than a passing thought.

Two big fabric plants in New Bedford have adopted a policy of "no jobs except for American citizens." These plants, with others of the industrial establishments of the city to follow, have opened offices for taking applications for work when the mills start up, and have created a sensation by requiring evidence of citizenship, or of having taken out at least the first papers for naturalization, besides demanding a poll-tax receipt to prove a local residence.

This is an unusual move, and it is bound to obtain wide attention. It has produced such a rush in the several bureaus which deal with such matters at New Bedford as never has been known there. It will be said that selfish motives inspire this course, but even though that be admitted it may be argued that the thing itself is good. It is intended to reduce the number of alien employees, persons who benefit by American institutions and accept no responsibility for the preservation and improvement of those institutions. It means an increase in attendance at night schools, greater interest in the speaking of English, increased appreciation of the what and the why of citizenship. In four days the local office of the bureau of immigration has done a larger business than in any thirty days heretofore. The plans will establish noon-hour classes at the mills, and avow their purpose to follow up those who take out first papers to insure their going the full distance and becoming citizens. It will be interesting to notice whether the great textile plants in the city adopt this same policy, and what the effect may be on the quality of citizenship on the one hand and on the efficiency of the work done in the mills on the other.

This appears to be a move in the right direction. Although it seems just a trifle harsh at first glance, the qualifications can easily be met by all who are interested in promoting the welfare of the country and community in which they earn their living. Because of the prevalence of unemployment at the present time, the factories can well afford to put it to a test. It will be interesting to notice if the mills in our locality will follow suit in the experiment proves successful in New Bedford.

A Rapid Age

"I predict that within five years all speed-limit laws in the United States will be abolished. Michigan has already abolished hers. We are living in a rapid age and must keep going more rapidly all the time. In order to accommodate the increasing automobile traffic of the country we must keep the cars moving at a high rate of speed."

Thus the vice president of one of the large automobile manufacturing companies is reassuring. A horrible misgiving was beginning to get around that our speed might be slackening; for, of course, it is a known law that an acceleration cannot be maintained forever. But take heart! We are only just warming to our stride. Having been reassured on this point could we now be reassured on another? It is true, we are going at a terrific rate. But does anybody know where we are going? And does anybody know what we are going to do when we get there? It is time to begin thinking about this, for we might arrive before we expect to. People do, sometimes. One unfortunate having done so, not long since, a neighbor went to inform the widow. He had rather a hard time breaking the news and finally brought out abruptly:

"Your husband has gone to a better world."

"When did he start?" asked the wife.

"About fifteen minutes ago."

"Then he's there by this time, at the rate he generally goes."

Yes. We are living in a rapid age.

Versatile Canadian Quartet

The Hart House String Quartet, which will play at Abbot on January 21, at 3 o'clock has provided one of the sensations of the musical season by proving that, in its own field of superlatively refined music, it can be either revolutionary or orthodox. This group of Canadian players, during its first seasons in the United States, devoted most of its program to the older masters. Last year, in honor of the Beethoven centenary, it gave the entire cycle of this master's quartets.

With the completion of its Beethoven programs, it showed an inclination to branch out, in response to many inquiries from musical folk who were desirous of becoming better acquainted with contemporary works. Its present repertoire of modern music is like a directory of the moderns, including Beethoven, Brahms, Debussy, Elgar, Kodaly, Loeffler, La Violette, Malipiero, Goossens, Respighi, Reger, Szymanowski, and Schullhoff. Four of these newer composers are Americans, three are German, and two each are representative of the Hungarian and English tendencies in music.

The classics, however, will not be neglected by the Hart House group. Its repertoire for the coming season includes material for five complete concerts from the old masters. Chamber music, as a form, has been adopted as a medium through which to express some of the rarest inspirations in musical art. The duty of a string quartet is to take these works and interpret the composer's intuition, illuminating the story in an adequate and understandable manner. For five years, the four members of the Hart House Quartet have been at work developing their present repertoire. They have been constantly associated, even their summer vacations being spent together on a great country estate in Ontario. Thus they have been enabled to develop that perfect "one-ness" which is the secret of string quartet success.

This concert will conclude the Samuel Morse Downs Course for the present year, and should provide a fitting close to this series. Admission of one dollar will be taken at the door.

The program:

Quartet Allegro moderato
Andante
Trés lent
Vif et agité
Italian Serenade
Allegro con grazia e con spirito
(Quartet in E flat, op. 109)

Engagement Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar I. Balcom of North Andover announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Emily Smith Balcom to W. Winslow Dannels of Andover. No definite plans have been made for the wedding.

Police Relief Association Makes Plans for Annual Ball

An important meeting of the Andover Police Relief association ball committee was held last Friday evening in the police station. The committee has engaged the Balmorians to furnish music for the dancing and plans are now under way for an elaborate program with a large chorus and many specialties. Tickets will soon be on sale and an immediate effort will be made to supply the urgent public demand. The committee has voted to extend the dancing hour until 1 o'clock.

The committee in charge of the arrangements: John Deyermann, chairman; Winthrop K. White, treasurer; Henry Todd, clerk.

The date of the ball is Friday evening, February 10. The concert will start at 8 o'clock and will be followed by general dancing.

Whist Party at K. of C. Hall

A successful whist party was held last Friday night in the Knights of Columbus hall. Prizes were awarded to the high scorers as follows: Bridge lamp, John Barrett; parlor clock, Mrs. Herbert Nightingale; lamp, Mrs. William Leavelle; carving set, Raymond Lefebvre; silver set, Mrs. Alfred Frotten; mirror, Mrs. George Garland; water set, Joseph Davey; clock, Mary Young; toilet set, George Eldred.

Punchard Alumni Plan Whist and Dance

Punchard alumni held a meeting last Friday night at the home of Miss Ethel Hitchcock, Phillips street.

It was decided to have a benefit whist party and dance in Punchard hall Friday, January 20. The proceeds will go toward the Punchard alumni scholarship fund.

The committee in charge: Charles Dalton, chairman; George Brown, Gladys Hill, Mrs. Malcolm McTernan, Mrs. Charles Warden and Arthur Fallon.

To Attend County Council

A bus will be run to East Lynn on Saturday, January 21, in order that the local Legionnaires may attend the Essex County Council meeting.

Members who intend to go should notify the following committee as soon as possible: Mrs. Harry Gouck of Burnham road, Mrs. Sarah Long of North Main street and Mrs. George Brown of Elm street.

Fionzaley Quartet Plays in Andover

A large audience enjoyed the beautiful concert given in the George Washington hall on Thursday evening, by the Fionzaley Quartet. This was the second annual concert given on the James C. Sawyer foundation, made possible through the generosity of an anonymous fund of $10,000, the income of which is devoted each year to a musical event of high quality.

While the members of the Fionzaley Quartet are all European, the ensemble in its origin is an American outgrowth. It took root on these shores, and its first recognition was gained in this country.

Adolfo Betti, first violin, is Italian by birth and was born in Bagni di Lucca. When he was sixteen, his superior musical ability was recognized, and he was sent to Belgium to study with Cesar Thomson at the Liege Conservatory. He remained with this famous teacher four years, and was awarded the Gold Medal in 1896. He then toured Austria, Italy, and Germany as a virtuoso. In 1900 he was appointed assistant to Cesar Thomson in the latter's virtuoso class at the Brussels Conservatory, where he remained three years until he joined the newly formed Fionzaley Quartet.

Alfred Pochon, second violin, was born in Lausanne, Switzerland. He too studied the violin at an early age, and went later to the Liege Conservatory to work with Cesar Thomson, where he won numerous honorary diplomas. He followed this study with a tour of Europe, and varied his virtuoso work with appearances in the Thomson Quartet in Brussels, and as concertmaster in the orchestra of Eugene Ysaye in the same city. In 1902 he left for the United States, where he joined Mr. E. J. de Coppet in founding the Fionzaley Quartet.

Ivan d'Archembeau, 'cellist, was born near Liege in Belgium. At the age of sixteen he began the study of the violoncello at the Conservatory of Verviers, where he carried off the highest honors. He continued his work at the Brussels and Frankfurt Conservatories, and then toured with great success as a soloist in Germany, Belgium, and Scotland. In 1903 he joined the Fionzaley Quartet.

Nicholas Moldavan was born in Odessa, Russia. He is a prize graduate of the Fionzaley Conservatory. Forced to flee Russia during the Bolshevik upheaval, he came to the United States in 1920. The invitation to join the Fionzaley Quartet came in 1925, when Felician d'Archembeau was forced through ill-health to relinquish the viola desk.

The program was as follows:

I. Quartet in D minor (K. 421) Mosart
Allegro moderato
Andante
Menuetto
Allegretto ma non troppo (Tema con variazioni)
II. "Italianische Serenade" Hugo Wolf
III. Adagio Schumann
Presto
(from quartet in A minor, Op. 41, No. 1)

IV. Petite Suite Monsorgsky-Pochon
(from "Pictures at an Exhibition")
1. Promenade
2. An Old Castle (a minstrel gives a serenade)
3. Gossiping and quarreling in a French market place (Limonos)

Andover Savings Bank Holds Annual Meeting

At the annual meeting of the Andover Savings Bank held at the Bank on Monday afternoon only routine business was transacted.

The names of four citizens of the town were added to the list of Corporators as follows: E. Barton Chapin, Nathan C. Hamblin, Edmond E. Hammond, Frank H. Hardy.

The terms of three trustees expired at this time and they were re-elected for a period of three years as follows: George Abbot, Fredrick S. Boutwell, Burton S. Flagg.

Mr. Flagg was re-elected president, George Abbot, vice president, and Alfred E. Stearns, clerk.

After the Trustees' meeting following the annual meeting the Investing Committee and Auditing Committee were re-elected for one year:

Investing committee, Burton S. Flagg, John H. Campion, Frederick H. Jones. Auditing committee, John H. Campion, David Shaw, Philip F. Ripley.

President Pease to Make Historical Address at 150th Anniversary

Announcement is made today, in connection with the program for the 150th anniversary at Phillips Academy, to be held on May 18 and 19, 1928, that the Historical Address for the occasion will be delivered by President Arthur Stanley Pease of Amherst College, a graduate of Phillips Academy in the class of 1898. Walter Frichard Eaton of the class of 1896 has been invited to prepare a poem for the occasion, and has accepted the invitation.

The January issue of the Phillips Bulletin, copies of which will shortly be sent to the alumni, contains a letter from Headmaster Alfred Ernest Stearns, to Andover men, explaining the significance of the 150th anniversary and urging them to be present. Among the other features of the Bulletin are a biographical sketch of Josiah Quincy (1802-1882), Mayor of Boston from 1845 to 1849, and a graduate of Phillips Academy in the class of 1817. This article is written by Claude M. Fuess. Roy H. Spencer contributes an article on "The Attitude of Parents towards an Academy Junior," and Scott H. Paradise has a description of the 125th anniversary celebration, held in Andover in 1903. This particular issue of the Bulletin contains reproductions of the architect's drawings of the proposed new Paul Revere Dormitory and the new Oliver Wendell Holmes Library.

Girls' Friendly Society Hold a Quarterly Supper

The quarterly supper planned and served by members of the Girls' Friendly society of Christ church was enjoyed by about thirty members and guests at the parish house on Monday evening.

Mrs. Claxton Munro, Miss Ethel Brown and four of the junior members were special guests of the evening.

The menu included meat loaf, ham, mashed potatoes, peas, rolls, pickles, olives, ice cream with chocolate sauce, fruit cake, cookies and coffee.

The members of the committee in charge were Misses Alexina Harris, Alice Wrigley, Helen Smith, and Ruth Saunders, assisted by Mrs. Walter E. Howe.

Mrs. Howe read a letter from Boston members of the Girls' Friendly society who took part in a New Year's house party at Milford, N. H. She also told of the plans for hikes to be held by the local society and for a gymnasium class to be conducted on Monday evenings by Miss Evelyn Parker, supervisor of physical training in the public schools.

The evening's entertainment concluded with the playing of games. Prizes were awarded to Miss Bertha Cuthill and Miss Daisy Stevens.

Historical Society to Hold Washington Ball

Plans for the Washington ball were made at a meeting held by a committee from the Andover Historical Society held Tuesday evening at the home of John V. Holt. Owing to the fact that Ash Wednesday falls on February 22, the date set for the ball is Tuesday, February 21.

The members of the committee of arrangements are: Fred E. Cheever, chairman; Mrs. S. H. Bailey, Jr., exhibition dances; Miss Bessie P. Goldsmith and Mrs. Arthur Bliss, Jr., publicity; Mr. and Mrs. John V. Holt, Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Brigham, Mrs. Philip P. Cole, Mrs. Henry S. Jenkins, Mrs. Dana W. Clark, Miss Alice Jenkins, Miss Bell J. Butterfield, Miss Helen Eaton, and Dr. Nathaniel W. Stowers.

South Church Men's Club

The next meeting of the South Church Men's club will be held in the vestry on next Thursday evening, January 19, at eight o'clock when Dr. Waller will speak on Norway, Denmark and Sweden.

Some Neglected Aspects of Good Citizenship

"There has never been a period when right conduct on the part of the individual has had better social results or when wrong conduct has been more detrimental. There are no mechanical or legislative substitutes for right conduct by the individual," said Robert S. Binkerd, speaking before the members of the November club, Monday afternoon on "Some Neglected Aspects of Good Citizenship."

Mr. Binkerd spoke especially of the responsibility of the average citizen in his relation to his economic environment, stressing the fact that although his individual efforts may seem trivial, yet in the aggregate they have far-reaching results.

The speaker spoke first of the great economic changes which had taken place in the last hundred years, of the multiplication of man's productive powers, especially in the field of transportation. Until 1825, by the use of horses and wheel-vehicles, he had increased the amount which could be transported by one man by forty-one times. With the era of steam and electricity, this power has been multiplied 1,740 times. These increased facilities are responsible for an economic condition which has abolished independence for the individual, the town or city, the state, country, and even the hemisphere, creating an interdependence among all peoples.

To maintain a stability in these relations, it may be necessary to sacrifice personal opinions and inclinations.

In speaking of prices, Mr. Binkerd said that they were largely regulated by supply and demand—that scarcity and high prices were a warning to use less of the commodity, while an abundance and lower prices were an invitation to increased consumption.

The multiplication of man's productive powers has made it possible to keep more people alive, has prolonged the period of childhood and the years spent in school, but according to Mr. Binkerd increased wealth has not resulted in the production of things of durable or permanent value. This is the result of the voice of individual consumers.

"Unless more intelligent use is made of man's productivity, what is it all about?" concluded the speaker.

Mr. Binkerd has been secretary of the City Club of New York and of the Citizens Union and has been vice chairman of the committee on public relations of the eastern railroads, which accounted for his frequent use of facts in regard to transportation with which to illustrate his points. He was introduced by Mrs. Frank L. Brigham, chairman of the Civics department, under whose auspices the afternoon's program was presented.

At the brief business meeting, preceding the lecture, letters were read from C. Carleton Kimball, treasurer of the local chapter of the American Red Cross and from Governor John E. Weeks of Vermont acknowledging the contribution of $500 given by the November club to the flood sufferers.

At the close of the afternoon's program, tea was served with Mrs. Arthur Sweeney and Miss Margaret Curran pouring.

The department of art will meet on Monday, January 16, at three o'clock at the home of Mrs. John L. Phillips.

The department of literature met on Wednesday, January 11, at the home of Mrs. Frank T. Carlton, Central street.

The department of music will meet on Monday, January 16, at quarter past three with Mrs. John C. Angus, Main street.

The department of drama meets this afternoon at three o'clock at the home of Mrs. Colver J. Stone, Locke street.

The department of civics will meet next Friday afternoon, January 20, at the club-house.

New Fire Alarm Boxes

Two new fire alarm boxes will be installed in the near future. Box 531 will be located at the corner of Walnut avenue and High street. Box 18 will be placed in Elm square, probably on the post at the corner of High and Elm streets near the Andover Square and Compass club house. At present the nearest box to the square is Box 52 at the Central fire station on Park street. Heretofore people near the corner of Walnut avenue and High street have had to go to Box 54 at the corner of Harding and North Main streets or up High street several hundred yards. In answering Box 54 the apparatus goes down North Main street from the square and would have to go up Harding street which is very steep.

Weddings

TRACY—MANNING

Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Manning of Maple court announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Ethel Beatrice to Hilman B. Tracy, D.M.D., son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Henry Tracy of Portland, Maine. The couple were married in the Methodist Episcopal church in Nashua, N. H., on December 23 by Rev. Alfred Wade Smith. They will reside in Boston.

The bride graduated from Pynchard high school with the class of 1922 and from the Boston Homeopathic hospital with the class of 1926. The bridegroom graduated from Tufts dental college with the class of 1927. He is a member of the Masonic lodge in Portland, Me.

STOVER—GASSER

The following account of a wedding of interest to Andover readers is reprinted from The New York Sun of January 11, 1928: Miss Frances Gasser, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Cullen Gasser of Plandome, L. I., was married yesterday to Richard Kitson Stover, son of Mrs. and the late Charles Livingston Stover of Lowell, Mass., at All Saints Church, Great Neck, L. I.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Charles Henry of Christ Church, Andover, Mass., assisted by the Rev. Kirkland Huske of All Saints Church. The wedding was followed by a reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gasser at Plandome.

Miss Josephine Gasser was maid of honor and Mrs. Edward D. Parsons of Tretton matron of honor. The other attendants were Mrs. Victor Hockmeyer, sister of Mr. Stover, of Bronxville; Mrs. Thomas D. Neelands, Jr., of Flushing; Mrs. Richard Salembier of Manhasset; Mrs. Gertrude Hopkins Cross of Roslyn; Mrs. Warren Mansur of Lowell, Mass., and Miss Eleanor Little of Morris-town.

Mr. Stover had his brother, Charles L. Stover, as best man. The ushers were James P. Gasser, John Yerxa, Malcolm Amisen of Boston, Francis Ryan of Larchmont, Frank L. Dorman of Englewood, Thomas D. Neelands, Jr., of Flushing and Richard Salembier of Manhasset.

Miss Gasser is a graduate of Abbot academy, Andover, Mass., Mr. Stover was graduated from Harvard in 1926.

Court St. Monica Notes

The annual election of officers will take place on Monday evening, January 23, at the regular meeting in the K. of C. hall.

The court will celebrate its fifth anniversary with a banquet in the K. of C. hall, February 6. Members of the Andover council, 1078, K. of C., will be the invited guests.

Sons of Veterans Auxiliary Install Officers

The annual installation ceremonies of the Ladies' auxiliary to Walter L. Raymond camp, 11, Sons of Veterans took place Wednesday evening in C. A. R. hall. The new officers were installed by Mrs. Lydia E. Bartlett and staff of Lowell.

The new officers are: President, Mrs. Harry Peatman; vice president, Mrs. James McCord; chaplain, Mrs. Ada Townsend; inside guard, Mrs. John Cummings; guide, Mrs. William H. Navin; assistant guide, Mrs. William Farrell; color guards, Mrs. Annie Kent and Mrs. Annie Qualey; treasurer, Mrs. Mary Lindholm; patriotic instructor, Mrs. William Tammany; musician, Mrs. Clara Rollins; secretary, Miss Anna Neas.

The guests of the evening were members of Walter L. Raymond camp, 111, S. of V. President Mrs. Floyd Eastman and several members of the General William F. Bartlett Woman's Relief corps; the commander of Camp 78, S. of V. of Lowell, the chaplain of the Haverhill Camp and the vice president of the Haverhill auxiliary, President Mrs. Henry Long of the local American Legion auxiliary and Commander Day of the Lexington camp.

Jesse Billington of Walter L. Raymond camp spoke for the G. A. R. veterans.

Present Logan and Lincoln Tablets to Memorial Hall

Two bronze tablets, one bearing Lincoln's Gettysburg address and the other General Logan's Memorial Day orders have been presented to Memorial hall by the Woman's Relief corps.

The presentation took place on Saturday evening at eight o'clock, Mrs. Clara Norton, patriotic instructor, acting for the Relief corps, and Nathan C. Hamblin accepting the gift in behalf of the trustees. Prayer was offered by Rev. Frederick A. Wilson, D.D.

A has relief of Lincoln with the dates 1809 and 1865 is above the Gettysburg address while that of General Logan surmounts the other. At the base of each is inscribed "Presented by General William F. Bartlett Woman's Relief Corps, No. 121, Auxiliary to the Grand Army of the Republic to Memorial Hall in memory of Gen. Wm. F. Bartlett Post, No. 99, G. A. R., January 2, 1928, Andover, Massachusetts."

The Logan tablet will be placed on the south wall of the upper hall. The place chosen for the Lincoln tablet is the stairway leading from the outer door to the children's room where they may pause to read these immortal words as they pass in and out from the reading room.

About fifteen members of the Corps and five members of the Board of Trustees were present on Saturday evening.

To Give Second of Series in History Film Course

A large number of townspeople attended the first of the Yale Chronicles Films which was shown in Washington Hall last Wednesday night.

Mr. Roth spoke of Andover's good fortune to have had these fifteen films in American History presented to the school by an unknown friend. He also acknowledged the kindness of the trustees of the Academy to open so fine an auditorium for the use of the film course.

In his brief talk before the film, "Columbus," Mr. Roth compared the deed of Columbus with that of Colonel Lindberg. One was seeking adventure and personal profit while the other, Lindberg, was modest and not anxious for personal gain as a result of his great adventure. After presenting the setting for Columbus' discovery of a new world the film of four reels was thrown on the screen.

The film for next Wednesday will be "The Frontier Woman" which will picture the romance and hardships of the brave women who made possible by their courage and sacrifices the expansion of the United States into the land beyond the mountains.

Mr. Roth suggests as themes for written descriptions for the school children who attend the pictures the following subjects: "Life in a Frontier Town," "Faith and Courage of the Frontier Woman," "A Frontier Home."

These films are open to the public free. Tickets may be secured from Mr. Dye in George Washington Hall.

Boy Scouts Present Weymouth Band

The Weymouth Post, 79, American Legion band gave a concert in the Town hall last evening before a large and appreciative audience. The music together with moving pictures of Lindberg's famous non-stop flight to Paris made a full two hours' program.

The musicians were introduced by Dr. Nathaniel Stowers and the curtain parted with the playing of "Jingle Bells" to disclose the band resplendent in their gorgeous red uniforms.

Medley of old college and war songs were followed by popular numbers and marches. "My Blue Heaven" was played by request and "Hunting We Will Go" proved a popular selection. A cornet solo, "When You and I Were Young Maggie" was given by one of the members of the band.

A surprise number at intermission was a one-reel moving picture of Lindberg as he hopped off on his non-stop flight to Paris, his reception in various foreign cities and in Washington and New York on his return. These pictures were shown through the courtesy of Carl Currier of The Evening Tribune. The program closed with the playing of "The Star Spangled Banner."

The Weymouth Legion band won the championship of the State of Massachusetts and made the trip to France last summer for the national convention of the American Legion in Paris. The band broadcasts regularly from Station WEEI, Boston.

The entire expense of sending this famous band here from Weymouth is being borne by the Stetson Shoe company of South Weymouth and Boston. The proceeds will go to the Andover Boy Scouts and will be used to help defray the expenses of building a cabin in Carmel Woods in the spring.

Further Hearing on Main Street Bridge

The county commissioners Thursday forenoon gave a continued hearing on the petition of the Andover Board of Selectmen that the board decree that the public convenience and necessity requires the building of the Main street bridge over the Boston & Maine and the approaches thereto.

Attorney Sawyer of the Boston & Maine, Attorney Carleton of the Eastern Massachusetts Street railway and State Commissioner Williams of the Highway department were present with their engineers.

Selectman Frank H. Hardy, Walter M. Lamont of the Town Finance committee, and F. L. Cole of the Public Works department spoke in favor of the petition.

The Eastern Massachusetts Street railway asked to be left undisturbed on its private bridge and not be required to contribute to any new bridge. The State Highway department and the Boston & Maine thought the best way was for the commission to pass on the matter on public necessities requiring the reconstruction and then have a special commission, under the statute, apportion the expense among the various parties which would be final.

The commission took the matter under advisement.

Makes Many Public Requests

The will of Mrs. Mary E. Ripley filed at the Probate court at Salem last week has the following public bequests: American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions, $5,000; Congregational Home Missionary society, $5,000; American Missionary association, $2,000; South church of Andover, $5,000, income for the support of music; Lawrence General hospital, $2,000; Theological Seminary of Georgia, provided her son-in-law was an officer or professor of the school at the time of her death, $1,000; trustees of the Phillips Andover academy, $5,000, subject to the annual payment of $100 to the Andover Guild as long as it continues its work; Andover Home for Aged People, $1,000.

Golden Rule Supper

The responsibility of America to the 32,000 orphans in the Near East was presented by Albert Scott from the Near East Relief Headquarters in Boston, following the Golden-Rule supper held Tuesday evening in the Baptist church vestry under the auspices of the Andover Christian Endeavor Union.

Mr. Scott has himself been in charge of an orphanage in Tripoli, Syria, which sheltered 1200 fatherless and motherless boys between the ages of four and sixteen. He told of the splendid work done, not only in feeding and clothing them, but also in teaching them trades, so they might become self supporting and find a permanent place in the home and the community. He himself wore a well-tailored suit made by one of the boys trained in the orphanage at Tripoli.

In order to see these children through the necessary period of training, it has been estimated that $6,000,000 will be necessary and the quota assigned to Massachusetts is $500,000.

The story of the work among these orphans who are now established in Syria, Palestine, the Russian Caucasus and Greece was graphically told by moving pictures.

At the conclusion of the talk, envelopes were distributed for cash donations and pledges.

The Golden-Rule supper which was served at half past six o'clock on tables guinea of tablecloths and napkins consisted of corn chowder, bread without butter, apple sauce, cocoa, and ginger cookies. About thirty persons were in attendance.

The members of the committee in charge were: Miss Edith Kierstead, chairman; Miss Lena Davis, Miss Edith C. Ross, Miss Eleanor Ramsdell, Miss Jeanette Meahan, Rev. Alfred C. Church, Homer Wadman and William M. Barnet.

Shows Winning Cats at Boston Poultry Show

The five brown Persian tabbies shown by Mrs. Harry Martin of Rock Maple farm won seven ribbons at the Boston Poultry show last week.

Buddy of Rock Maple farm, a registered tabby, was awarded first and winner. Lady Lilla Demarest 2nd, only eight months old, won over her mother, taking first and winner in her class. Bunty took second in the same class with Buddy, and Lady Beverly took third in the same class in which Lady Lilla Demarest took first.

Mrs. Martin is also the owner of the champion, Prince Boris Goodounoff, who has never been defeated. She will show her tabbies at the Springfield Cat Club show which is being held on Friday and Saturday of this week.

Baptist Church Notes

At the morning service next Sunday Rev. Herman Van Lunen of Ballardvale will preach in exchange with the pastor.

At 7 p.m. there will be an organ recital by Mrs. George Campbell, who is the organist and choir director of the United Church of Princeton, Prince Edward Island. As Mrs. Campbell was formerly a resident of Andover, many of the townspeople will be glad to avail themselves of this opportunity to hear an excellent recital by one of their own number who has returned for a brief visit.

Child Welfare Luncheon Discussion

The fourth in the series of luncheon discussions on "Child Welfare" was held on Thursday, January 12, at the home of Miss Amelia Shapleigh. Discussion of "Child Labor in Massachusetts" was continued with Mrs. Alexander Wadsworth as leader and the laws of the State as a basis. Were these laws rigidly enforced most of the problems would be solved. But the fact that laws in regard to factory inspection, work certificates, continuation schools, etc., exist, keeps down the percentage of children whom industry will employ. Only 6 per cent of persons employed in cotton mills and 5 per cent of those in woolen mills are children, most young folks being given, the so called "arm and leg" jobs. Better health service is needed for these children, a follow-up service that shall do for workers in industry what the school nurse does for the children in schools.

Contrary to general opinion, it was shown that increased juvenile delinquency is not traceable to increased employment of adolescents, but dates back to early truancy and maladjustment in school life. But the accident, health and moral hazards for children in industry, all emphasize the need of more schooling more training for citizenship, and higher standards of living for these young people.

Are the schools, by keeping to old time traditional methods failing to hold the children of today? Are they doing enough to overcome a dislike of school common to the mediocre student? Have we enough well paid physical directors whose sole business is to teach good health?

In a concrete way almost any child can be stimulated to work along some line, provided some one is interested enough to seek out his particular ability.

The function of the school is not merely to instruct but to consider the talent each child has and develop that talent; to teach each child to discover his own ability, self mastery, control and education of his emotions, mental hygiene, profitable use of leisure time, and how to be a good citizen in his community. When the schools have attained this Utopian state, education will be so much more desirable to the adolescent than a job that there will be little need for compulsory raising of the school age.

Police Called to Search for Burglar

Stealthy footsteps about the house wakened Mrs. Lotta Johnson at her home at 102 Summer street late Wednesday night. Getting up she heard the sound of a person or persons running from the back of the house toward the swamp.

The police were summoned and Officer Love responded. The front door was found open but there were no footprints or other traces of intruders.

Mrs. Johnson said that she had seen two men parked in an Essex coach earlier in the evening.

Brother Gilbert to Speak at K. of C. Get-Together

Arrangements are fast being completed for the next meeting of Andover council, 1078, Knights of Columbus, to be held in the K. of C. Hall Thursday evening, January 19. The committee has succeeded in getting Rev. Brother Gilbert, C. F. X., now at the brothers' school in Roxbury, to be the guest of the evening and also to address the council.

Several prominent singers and entertainers will also be on hand.

It was Brother Gilbert who developed "Babe" Ruth. He was formerly stationed at St. John's preparatory school in Danvers.

Abbot Academy Notes

The Rev. Charles H. Cutler, D.D., trustee of the academy, conducted the Sunday evening service in Abbot hall on January 8. Members of the Abbot Dramatic society entertained a large audience on Tuesday evening, January 10, when they presented two plays: "Suppressed Desires" by Susan Glaspell, and "The Ghost Story" by Booth Tarkington. Under the direction of Mrs. Bertha Morgan Gray, the cast had carefully prepared for the good production, and the stage was attractively set. The program was as follows:

SUPPRESSED DESIRES

Driver Injured When Horse Bolts

Thrown to the roadway after his horse had become frightened while driving on Salem street early last Friday afternoon, William Doughty, 38, of Salem street, suffered a compound fracture to his right ankle and was removed to the General hospital.

Mr. Doughty, who is caretaker of the Ward farm on Prospect Hill road, was going home with his horse and wagon, when the horse suddenly shied at some unknown object and ran away, throwing Mr. Doughty from the wagon. He suffered a broken arm and a broken ankle. He laid at the side of the road for about two hours, until George Millett, who happened to pass by, saw him and immediately called the ambulance. Dr. Walker attended Doughty and ordered him removed to the Lawrence General hospital, where he is still a patient.

A Correction

The Editorial in a recent Townsman on the passing of the late Miss Mary Alice Abbot was a true statement of worthwhile achievements of a rare character, with one exception. The assertion that Miss Abbot had the distinction of being the first woman to speak in Town meeting. This was a mistake. During the annual debate between the late Hon. John N. Cole and William Shaw on town expenses and the familiar agitation over taxation problems, a woman in the rear of the hall having overcome her fright when the Moderator pointed his gavel in her direction, stimulated by her desire to take advantage of the glorious freedom promised, spoke briefly. The hall was frightfully stuffy. This is what she said—Mr. Moderator if it is not too expensive I move that we have some fresh air. This motion is recorded in Robin Hollow, page 387, a delightful story written by our distinguished authoress and librarian, Miss Edna Brown. The late Miss Abbot entered the hall a little later from the door on the left of the platform and making a dignified little speech presented some Trophy to the Town but the voice of one of the most zealous Ar i-Suffragists in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts had broken the silence of nearly three hundred years in the town of Andover at the Town Meeting. I wonder who in an after-dinner speech in the old days when women were called "ladies", proposed the toast: The ladies once our superiors now our equals.

Plans Made for Burns Anniversary

A special meeting of the ways and means committee of the Fraternal building association was held last night in Fraternal hall and plans were made for the celebration of Robert Burns night to take place on January 20. Tickets have been issued and a fine entertainment program is planned. It will be held in Fraternal hall.

The following is the committee from the Ladies' auxiliary to Clan Johnston: Mrs. Alexina Guthrie, chairman; Mrs. Samuel R. Harris, Mrs. George Nicoll; Mrs. Jean Wood, Mrs. Jean Sorrie, Mrs. David Kydd and Mrs. George B. Petrie.

Where Real Estate is Active

"If I were to describe the present real estate situation in one word, the word would be 'stability'! This viewpoint is substantiated by reports which I have received from the Chambers of Commerce in ninety-five representative cities throughout the United States. In answer to the question of how real conditions are today, thirty-eight of these cities reported it as fair, twenty-nine as good, and twenty-eight as poor. In other words, in far the greater number of cities, realty conditions do not show much change and are designated as fair. Reduced to a percentage basis, this means that out of a total of ninety-five cities, 40% of them are fair, 30.1-2% are good and 29.1-2% are poor. One must take into account, in judging realty conditions now that it is the middle of winter and only those places that are noted as winter resorts would normally expect to have very active real estate conditions. This seasonal influence is perhaps as pronounced in real estate as in any other line of business. Spring and Fall are normally the active seasons in the real estate market.

"I am particularly impressed with the continuation of active realty conditions in Texas, in the face of a generally lethargic condition for many sections of the country. Among the more active cities in Texas, from a real estate point of view, are Houston, Galveston, and Beaumont. In Oklahoma, Oklahoma City and Tulsa report active conditions. In fact, the Southwest as a whole is showing up relatively well, both with respect to general business and real estate. Real estate is reported as either good or excellent in other cities as follows: Lansing (Michigan), Milwaukee (Wisconsin), Toledo and Cincinnati (Ohio), Peoria (Illinois), Hartford (Connecticut), Pittsburg and Chester (Pennsylvania), Wilmington (Delaware), Chattanooga (Tennessee), Winston-Salem and Charlotte (North Carolina), Montgomery and Mobile (Alabama), and Hutchinson (Kansas).

Rents and Real Estate

"In connection with this study of the real estate situation, it is interesting to note the conditions existing at present with regard to the renting of houses. From ninety-five reports from these Chambers of Commerce, I find that forty-one report a decrease in the number of houses for rent, while thirty-two report an increase and twenty-two indicate that there has been no changes recently. This analysis would seem to indicate that the supply of houses has on the whole pretty well caught up with the demand. I am also of the opinion that builders are beginning to realize that the best policy is to secure occupants before building new houses. An interesting point which I found true in my study of these reports is that the houses available for rent are, in most cases, old houses and that new houses are pretty well filled at present.

ROGER W. BABSON DISCUSSES THE PURCHASING AND RENTING OF HOMES

Gives Tips on How to Get In at the Bottom and Get Out at the Top When Dealing in Real Estate—Supply of Houses Has Caught Up with Demand—Airplane to Have Tremendous Effect on Values

Babson Park, Massachusetts, January 13, 1928. Roger W. Babson was today interviewed on the real estate situation, apart from the question of new building. He feels much better as to the land situation than he does as to certain forms of building. His complete statement is as follows:

Land Supply Limited

"It is a common saying that there is still a lot of land outdoors. This is true, there is a lot of land outdoors and it is very evident when one travels about this great continent. In the United States, in Canada, and in Mexico there is a tremendous amount of land available. On the other hand, there is only so much land and there never will be any more. Furthermore, good land which does not need drainage or irrigation, and which is handy to communication, is especially limited. It will always be possible to erect more buildings. The supply of buildings will never give out, but the available supply of land is constantly growing less.

"However, purchases of real estate should not be based on the above ideas, but one should seek out states, cities, and streets which are temporarily depressed, but which are in line for future development. For instance, were I to purchase farm land today I would go to Iowa, Nebraska and those portions of the central west which have specifically suffered during the past five years. Were I to purchase city property, I should go to Seattle or some other northwestern city which has not yet fully recovered from the boom it had a decade ago. If I were to purchase land in some city, it would probably be in the poorest section of that city, the so-called slum district, a section where an automobile artery is to be put through sooner or later. There are always bargains in real estate somewhere. There is a wave movement for farm lands, also for city lands, while there is a similar movement for speculative lands. The law of action and reaction is always operating. The important thing is to get in at the bottom and get out at the top, although unfortunately, most people do the reverse of this.

Where Real Estate is Active
"If I were to describe the present real estate situation in one word, the word would be 'stability'! This viewpoint is substantiated by reports which I have received from the Chambers of Commerce in ninety-five representative cities throughout the United States. In answer to the question of how real conditions are today, thirty-eight of

One must take into account, in judging realty conditions now that it is the middle of winter and only those places that are noted as winter resorts would normally expect to have very active real estate conditions. This seasonal influence is perhaps as pronounced in real estate as in any other line of business. Spring and Fall are normally the active seasons in the real estate market.

Real estate is reported as either good or excellent in other cities as follows: Lansing (Michigan), Milwaukee (Wisconsin), Toledo and Cincinnati (Ohio), Peoria (Illinois), Hartford (Connecticut), Pittsburg and Chester (Pennsylvania), Wilmington (Delaware), Chattanooga (Tennessee), Winston-Salem and Charlotte (North Carolina), Montgomery and Mobile (Alabama), and Hutchinson (Kansas).

Rents and Real Estate

"In connection with this study of the real estate situation, it is interesting to note the conditions existing at present with regard to the renting of houses. From ninety-five reports from these Chambers of Commerce, I find that forty-one report a decrease in the number of houses for rent, while thirty-two report an increase and twenty-two indicate that there has been no changes recently. This analysis would seem to indicate that the supply of houses has on the whole pretty well caught up with the demand. I am also of the opinion that builders are beginning to realize that the best policy is to secure occupants before building new houses. An interesting point which I found true in my study of these reports is that the houses available for rent are, in most cases, old houses and that new houses are pretty well filled at present.

"If I were to purchase real estate today I would not only look for a section which is now depressed, but I would look in the suburbs of a city where land can be purchased by the acre rather than by the foot. Of course, everyone who intends to purchase real estate is interested in two things, namely, location and price. As it is impossible to discuss here in a general way the first of these two, I shall only give the results of my study of land costs as I found them to exist in different sections. A majority of reports show, for land by the acre nearest to the cities, a price of around $500. In most cities, good land can be obtained at a cost of from $500 to $1000, although oftentimes one must expect to pay considerably more for particularly well located property. I am informed that in parts of the South and Southwest good land near to cities can be purchased at around $75 or $100 an acre and I presume that such land at similar prices is available in certain other sections of the country.

Real Estate and Airplanes
"People have not yet realized the tremendous effect on real estate values which the airplane someday is to have. Airplanes are getting much newspaper space today, but as yet have not become an economic factor. When, however, the helicopter is perfected, which will enable an airplane to rise vertically from the roof of any building and safely fall vertically at any point, then and then only will we enter an airplane era. The time is coming when airplanes will run in strings, like cars in a train, so that should the engines or wings on one break down, the others would pull it along. The effect of such development will be as great on land values as was the building of highways and railroads one hundred years ago.

"Of course, real estate values are inevitably linked with general business. Hence, as general business today is slightly below normal, as shown by the Babsonchart to be 2% below normal, so real estate activity is about the same. There are no booms anywhere. On the other hand, all sections of the United States are doing a normal real estate business. Real estate in Canada seems to be picking up. I believe that land within fifteen miles of Canadian cities like Calgary is a good purchase at the present time. There probably also are some great bargains in Mexico, although these of course, are necessarily speculative. Statistics indicate that certain lines of building are now overdone and we must wait a while for the demand to catch up with the supply. Land values, however, in most sections of the country, are in fairly stable condition.

A LITTLE OUT OF THE WAY

BUT IT PAYS TO WALK

Egyptian Had First Idea of Steam Power

Every now and then some inventor files an application in the patent office which is squarely anticipated by one or another of the inventions of one Hero or Heron, who lived, so it appears, in Alexandria a hundred or so years before the Christian era, says a writer in the Kansas City Star.

Some of his inventions are fairly familiar to students of physics, but as they are not in use in the exact form in which he developed them they are not generally known as such.

Among others he developed an apparatus for causing the doors of a temple to open after a fire had been kindled on an altar outside. The heat of the fire caused expansion of confined air which forced water into some vessels suspended by cords and arranged, when heavy enough, to pull back the leaves of the door. This must have been a great mystery in his time.

Another, and one of the most graceful ideas of this or any other inventor, was his reaction steam engine. The principle of this was identical with the little rotary lawn-sprinklers now in use which whirl rapidly around, throwing water over a circular area.

Hero arranged a vessel of water, with two arms extending from its top, so that it could readily spin on an axis. Heat was applied beneath so as to boil the water. The steam rushed out from the extended arms, which were provided with outlets exactly as in the little lawn sprinklers, so that the reaction from the jets of steam kicked the arms around and spun the whole affair.

Whether or not he ever developed this apparatus in sufficient dimensions to get power from it we are not sure. It is more than likely that he may have utilized it for producing a very small amount of power. It remains the great-grandfather of all reaction steam engines, reaction turbines and other like devices of a now numerous family, all of which utilize this principle which Hero seems to have been the first to figure out.

Married Woman's Career

Can the married woman keep up outside work and run her home properly at the same time? A 9 to 5 o'clock job, combined with home-making and housekeeping, is certainly too much to ask of any woman. If there are children to be looked after, all sorts of complications arise; there must be a good, faithful and intelligent servant, and every housekeeper knows that the species is nearly extinct. Or, the children must be sent to a day nursery or to school at an early age. Such institutions are poor substitutes for a happy home life. The regular job, then, is out so far as wives and mothers of the middle and lower classes are concerned. We must look elsewhere for the married woman's career, and we find it in a diversity of interests that do not demand the whole of an individual's time, in social work, in writing, in teaching, in little theater movements, or in music.—The Musical Observer.

Teams In Triple Tie

The second week's bowling in the second half of the Shawsheen Bowling league finds three teams in a tie for top honors, the Barking Dogs, Old Golds, and Chesterfields each having won five and lost three.

The Old Golds ran wild in their second string against the Barking Dogs with Curtin setting a new single string record of 125 and the team hitting 521 for another record. Incidentally they took three from the Dogs. Wilkinson had 301 for high triple.

The Fatimas took three from the Lucky Strikes with Proulx hitting 103 and 273 for the high scores. The win put them in a tie for fourth place with the Camels.

The Camels and Chesterfields split even in a close match the former winning the total by 4 pins. Pearson had 110 for high single and Robertson 307 for best triple.

Small Cobbler's Shop

Pat Kenny, a cobbler, claims to work in the smallest and strangest shop in the world.

Situated under a railway arch in Bermondsey, London, the tiny shop is only 4 feet square. It is entered from the pavement by a door less than 5 feet high and Kenny sits at his cobblering in the center of the masonry. "Trains roar over my head," said Kenny, "traffic rattles through the arch, footsteps echo all around, but I just go on mending boots and shoes as if I were back in a dugout in France."

Scissors Tie Buttons

The Scissors, by taking four from the Thimbles, cut into the lead of Buttons and are now tied for second place with the latter in the Thimble Club league. Mrs. J. Coutts led with 84 and 233. Mrs. M. Wadman had the high single of 86.

The Spools and Buttons battled for the lead, the former won three points, losing the last string by 11 pins. Miss B. Higgins was high with 90 and 247. Mrs. Wade led the Buttons with 89 and 232.

The Needles dropped four to the Pins despite the fine rolling of Mrs. B. Clark with hit 95 and 270. All the strings were close, the Pins finally winning by 12 pins. Mrs. A. Elander was top roller for the Pins with 90 and 251.

HINTS FOR GRADUATES

Many a man has gotten a bad fall from the tree of knowledge.

The younger the practitioner of any profession the wiser his look.

Possession of a diploma doesn't necessarily mean that one is diplomatic.

It's a wise graduate who is willing to start with a job and work into a position.

What is important and decisive is not what a man learns but what he accomplishes.—Boston Transcript.

OBSERVE MEN'S NIGHT

Parent-Teacher Association Hosts—Rev. Arthur Barber Gives Travelogue—Music by J. Everett Collins

The annual gentlemen's night of the Shawsheen Parent-Teacher association was observed Wednesday evening in the school hall. The committee was fortunate in securing Rev. Arthur Barber of Lawrence who gave a wonderful talk on England and Central Europe where he had toured a year ago. His description of the countries, their condition, architecture and peoples was most interesting.

The soloist of the evening was J. Everett Collins who sang "No John" and "Old English; "Old Squire Bob"; Fox; and "In My Garden." Liddle. He was accompanied by Mrs. Frederick C. Smith at the piano.

The banner for attendance was again won by grade one. James Mosher in behalf of the association, presented to the school a curtain for the stage which fills a long-felt want and adds greatly to the appearance of the hall. Mr. Mosher was the chairman of the committee in charge of the evening's program and was assisted in serving the refreshments by Needham B. Brown and James B. Gillen.

Announce Engagement

Mr. and Mrs. J. Howard Eames of Wilmington announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Helen Mildred Eames, to Harry Lawrence Wiggins of Brookline and Shawsheen. Miss Eames is a graduate of Northfield Seminary. Her fiancé was graduated from Bowdoin college in 1911, where he was a member of Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity. He is now a commissioned officer in the United States reserve corps and is one of the officials of the Andover Country Club. The wedding will take place in the late spring.

Leaders Lose Four

A four point defeat pinned on the leading Go-Getters by the Airdireonians was the big surprise of the matches rolled Monday night in the Clan Johnston Ladies Auxiliary league. The leaders were off form particularly in their first string when their opponents took a 69 point lead. It was the worst defeat of the leaders this season. Miss S. Bisset was high with 89 and 247.

The Lucky Lindys, rolling a dummy, took three points from the Blue Bells with Mrs. I. Brown rolling 85 and 245. Miss C. Cairnie led the Bells with 85 and 246. The Argyles stepped into second place by taking four from the last place Thimbles. Miss E. Valentine rolled 84 and 230.

Hold Benefit Whist

Hold Benefit Whist

Wednesday evening a benefit whist party was held at the home of Mrs. Anne Davis of Harding street. The proceeds were presented to the Carrie Buchanan association for the Soldiers' home in Chelsea. A very dainty luncheon was served by Mrs. Annie Davis assisted by Mrs. Horace Eaton and Mrs. Harry Gouck.

A large list of very beautiful prizes kindly donated by residents of Andover were won by the following: John Cameron, R. F. Robinson, Mrs. Ernest Johnson, Parker Eaton, William McDermott, Jean McShane, Mrs. Hubert Mayo. The consolation prizes were won by Mrs. and Mrs. Joseph Miller.

Wanted Plenty of Them

Little Frances had returned from a visit with her grandmother in the country. While there she had heard of flocks of sheep and flocks of chickens.

Her mother had taken her down town to buy a new dress, when Frances saw a large number of dresses her size in the store and she said, "Oh, mother, please get me a whole flock of those pretty dresses."

Path to Wisdom

The most of us are too fond of people who agree with us, and have too little use for those who do not. If we would but cultivate the latter a little more than we do, we might gain more wisdom than we now have.—Grit.

MARSHALS GAIN LEAD

Take Four From Wardens While Deacons Drop Four to Masters. Teams Tie and League Race is Tight Again

The Marshals and Deacons, as a result of Tuesday night matches, are tied for first place in the Square and Compass Club league and the Tylers are only four points behind as runners-up.

The Deacons, with Captain Neilson and John Erving missing, were easy for the Masters who took four points winning the pinfall by 54. The Deacons rolled a Mr. Dummy for the first time this season and know now how it feels. Harold Peters was the only Deacon to stay up and he hit 111 and 285. Johnson hit 102 and 291 for the Masters.

The Wardens hit the ways for four, the Marshals rolling in top form. Baker kicked in with 296 and 115 for high single of the night. John Carse hit 108 for top single and Harry Wadman 288 for high triple for the Wardens.

The Stewards earned one point in four from the Tylers by 9 pins. They made a big bid for the third, tied at 499. The roll-off between the rival captains, K. R. Batcheller and J. P. Christie was so one sided. Rollo did not roll his second box. G. A. Christie was high with 108 and 275.
